TRANSACTIONS

OF THE

ROYAL SOCIETY OF EDINBURGH.

VOL. XXI. PART I., FOR THE SESSION 1853–54.

CONTENTS.

Page

ART. I.—On the Impregnation of the Ova of the Salmonidæ. By JOHN DAVY, M.D., F.R.S. Lond. & Edin., Inspector-General of Army Hospitals, ... 1

II.—On the Torbanehill Mineral. By THOMAS STEWART TRAILL, M.D., F.R.S.E., Professor of Medical Jurisprudence in the University of Edinburgh, ... 7

III.—On a New Hygrometer or Dew Point Instrument. By A. CONNELL, Esq., F.R.S.E., Professor of Chemistry in the University of St Andrews, ... 15

IV.—On the Action of the Halogen Compounds of Ethyl and Amyl on some Vegetable Alkaloids. By Mr HENRY HOW, Assistant to Professor ANDERSON, Glasgow University, . . . 27

V.—On a General Method of Substituting Iodine for Hydrogen in Organic Compounds, and on the Properties of Iodopyromeconic Acid. By Mr JAMES F. BROWN, Assistant to Professor ANDERSON, Glasgow, ... 49

VI.—Note on the Possible Density of the Luminiferous Medium, and on the Mechanical Value of a Cubic Mile of Sunlight. By Professor WILLIAM THOMSON, ... 57

VII.—On the Mechanical Energies of the Solar System. By Professor WILLIAM THOMSON, . 63

[For remainder of Contents see last page of Cover.]

TRANSACTIONS

OF THE

ROYAL SOCIETY OF EDINBURGH.